

Dear all,

This is the latest news from the QoG Institute.

NEW ARTICLES

Bauhr, Monika (2016). Need or Greed? Conditions for Collective Action against Corruption. Governance.

Sundström, Aksel (2016). Understanding illegality and corruption in forest governance. Journal of Environmental Management.

Dahlberg, Stefan & Linde, Jonas (2016). The Stability of the Winner-Loser Gap in Political Support: Evidence from a Swedish citizen panel. International Political Science Review.

Dahlberg, Stefan & Linde, Jonas (2016). Losing happily? The mitigating effect of democracy and quality of government on the winner-loser gap in political support. International Journal of Public Administration.

Dahlberg, Stefan & Holmberg, Sören (2016). The Importance of Electoral and Judicial Trust for Regime Support. Review of Public Administration and Management.4:1. Pp. 1-9.

NEW WORKING PAPERS

Carl Dahlström, Marina Nistotskaya & Maria Tyrberg: Is the quality of the outsourced public services contingent on the quality of bureaucracy? (2016:10)

Bo Rothstein: Corruption, Gender Equality and Feminist Strategies. (2016:9)

Niklas Harring & Victor Lapuente: Cooperation or Punishment. The Effects of Trust on Government Regulation and Taxation. (2016:8)

QOG INTERNAL CONFERENCE

QoG had an internal conference 22-23 August at Vann Spa Hotell och Konferens. During these two days, draft articles and ongoing research was presented and discussed. In total, 12 papers were discussed, some of them co-authored. Our internal conferences provide an excellent forum for advancing ongoing research, stimulating co-operation, and building an academically and socially strong research environment. The conference was a great success and we hope to see many of the papers being published in international peer-review journals or as working papers on our website.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Come and meet QoG at the APSA 2016 Annual Meeting & Exhibition!

On this year's edition of the APSA 2016 Annual Meeting & Exhibition, you have the chance to come and learn more about the QoG institute and the QOG data. We will be having an exhibition booth in Hall A, Booth 106. We also invite you to join us for a Wine & Cheese Reception on Friday September 2nd!

For more information on APSA, visit:

<http://community.apsanet.org/annualmeeting/home>

Best regards,
The QoG Team

