

QoG NEWS

Dear all,

This is the latest news from the QoG Institute.

NEW ARTICLES

Niklas Harring (2015). Reward or Punish? Understanding Preferences toward Economic or Regulatory Instruments in a Cross-National Perspective. Political Studies.

NEW WORKING PAPERS

Stefan Dahlberg & Sören Holmberg: The Importance of Electoral and Judicial Trust for Regime Support (2015:7)

Nicholas Charron, Carl Dahlström, Mihály Fazekas, Victor Lapuente: Careers, connections and corruption risks in Europe (2015:6)

NEW BOOK

Bo Rothstein (2015), De samhälleliga institutionernas kvalitet. Slutrapport från ett forskningsprogram. RJs skriftserie 4. Makadam förlag.

This book summarizes the most important research results from the QoG institute's first ten years. The book is available in all online bookshops, such as adlibris.se and bokus.com or can be order from physical book stores. A pdf version of the book can also be downloaded at Riksbankens jubileumsfonds website.

UPCOMING ANTICORRP SEMINAR

ANTICORRUPTION POLICIES REVISITED:
Global Trends and European Responses to the Challenge of Corruption

The ANTICORRP project is presenting results from a Pan-European Survey on Citizen Experience and Satisfaction with Public Services. The seminar will be held in Brussels June 15th.

For registration or more information, contact dalila.sabanic@gu.se.

The survey, which was conducted by researchers from the Quality of Government Institute, is the largest multi-country governance survey aimed at capturing regional variation and its explanations. The survey focused on the experience of citizens in 206 European regions with public services and their level of satisfaction as well as on individual strategies of getting the desired quality of service. Building on previous collaborations with the EU Commission and DG REGIO, we present a new round of the 'European Quality of Government Index (EQI), which is the first multi-country, sub-national indicator of quality of government. In addition to the survey results, several other questions of research interest, such as the level of social trust, perceptions and experiences with meritocracy in the public and private sector and the impact of a corruption scandal on voting patterns were included in the survey and will be presented. The survey was initiated during the month of February, 2013 and was conducted in the local majority language of each country/region. The sample size of citizens in the survey was over 85,000 Europe-wide, with the final focus of the collected data aimed at the regional level. The survey selectively sampled 400-plus citizens per region (NUTS 1 or 2) in 24 countries, and the sample size for each country varies depending on the number of regions.

Best regards,
The QoG Team

Find us on Facebook